Welcome

We've created this media toolkit to equip you with information and materials you can use to support and improve your outreach to donors and volunteers, staff, foster parents, and other community partners.

The information and suggested content are easy to use. Simply copy and paste any materials that you like into your email program, social media accounts, and more! Quickly and efficiently spread the word to help drive awareness about the importance of mental health and family well-being.

As you review the following pages, please remember these three suggestions:

1. You can easily copy and paste (right click, then select copy/paste) any of the provided copy for your organization. Customize the language to fit your needs, or feel free to create your own message!
2. The image bank allows you to download any additional graphics you may need. We've created a variety of images for you to use as frequently as needed to support your efforts.
3. If you need any other information about our Mental Health Month, or assistance in navigating this toolkit, please do not hesitate to contact the Nexus Family Healing Marketing & Communications Department at nho-communications@nexusfamilyhealing.org with any questions.

Program Overview

The information and assets provided in this toolkit are to support your efforts in gaining awareness and support of Nexus' focus on Mental Health Month. Beginning in April, Nexus will start promoting our Family Wellness Kit that will be available for download during the month of May.

Family Wellness Kit includes:

- Family Wellness Calendar with daily activities for strengthening family well-being.
- Family Joy Journal to share positive notes from each day.
- A resource sheet explaining warning signs to watch for and 10 steps to supporting your child's mental health.
- Conversation Starters to get past the generic "I'm fine" response and learn more about how your family is feeling.

Nexus will also publish two related blog posts during May that can be woven into your content sharing. The goal of our family-focus during Mental Health Month is to educate and engage families and the community on simple ways to strengthen relationships and overall well-being.

Tips:

- Prepare
 - Review Nexus' Family Wellness Kit prior to May so you're aware of the different materials. Use the suggested schedule on pages 4-9 to promote the upcoming resources to stakeholders.
 - Share snippets and highlights of what's to come without giving too much away. Start building excitement around the upcoming campaign and let your followers and stakeholders know the important dates to get the materials.
- Educate and Communicate
 - Once materials are available, you can use the daily activities as content for social media or emails to educate families on small things they can do to improve and strengthen their family's mental health and well-being.
- Engage and Motivate
 - Share the download link! Just because the toolkit is made for May, it can be used any time of the year so it's never too late to get the resources.
- Share and Celebrate
 - Use the hashtags #FamilyWellness and #MentalHealthMonth so that we can follow along and help amplify your messages!
